Micron Figures

The micron figures for all sale rams were obtained from samples taken in May and August under the supervision of NSW SMB Councillors.

Micron figures are a guide only and should be used as such. They do not necessarily tell how an individual ram will breed. Rams tested are in full show feed and micron results can be expected to show stronger figures than would be expected under natural conditions.

The 'Comfort Factor' is expressed as a percentage and is defined as the proportion of fibres which have a diameter of less than 30µm. Research has shown that wools with a 'Comfort Factor' of 95% or greater (ie. less than 5% of fibres greater than 30µm) can be comfortably worn against the skin. A wool with a 'Comfort Factor' of 100% contains no fibres greater than 30µm.

The 'Spinning Fineness' is expressed in microns and provides an estimate of the performance of the wool when it is spun into yarn. The 'Spinning Fineness' is calculated from the measured Mean Fibre Diameter and the measured Coefficient of Variation of Fibre Diameter. The Spinning Fineness is the same as the Fibre Diameter when the Coefficient of Variation (CV) is 24%. Wools with a CV of less than 24% will have a Spinning Fineness less than the Fibre Diameter.

The Mean Fibre Diameter, the Standard Deviation of Fibre Diameter, and the Coefficient of Variation of Fibre Diameter are values that have been measured by AWTA Ltd using Laserscan instrumentation. The 'Comfort Factor' and 'Spinning Fineness' are values that have been calculated using formulas that have been derived from research studies. The are not values that are directly measured by AWTA Ltd and care should be taken in their use.

The Standard Deviation is a statistic that summarises the way diameter results from individual fibres are spread around the Mean Fibre Diameter. It measures the absolute distribution of fibre diameter either side of the Mean and is expressed in microns.

Sixty eight percent (68%) of fibres fall within a range one Standard Deviation either side of the Mean, and 95% of fibres fall within a range two Standard Deviations either side of the Mean. For example a wool with a Mean Fibre Diameter of 20µm and a Standard Deviation of 4µm will have 68% of fibre snippets between 16.0µm and 24.0µm and 95% of fibre snippets between 12.0µm and 28.0µm.

The Coefficient of Variation is a measure of the relative distribution of fibre diameter and is expressed as a percentage (%). It is calculated by expressing the Standard Deviation as a percentage of the Mean. For example a wool with a Mean Fibre Diameter of 20µm and a Standard Deviation of 4µm will have a Coefficient of Variation of (4.0÷20.0) x 100 = 20%.
