Woodpark Poll

“With a change of bloodlines this Western District flock hit the ground running”

- writes Fiona Myers (The Weekly Times June 5, 2019).

Howard McCorkell, his family and manager Jamie Burns run more than 7000 Merino and Composite sheep on the McCorkells property in 650mm rainfall country west of Hamilton.

After taking over his family's property and flock more than seven years ago, and on the advice of his sheep consultant Craig Wilson, Mr McCorkell injected Woodpark Poll genetics in a bid to lift wool cut and body size while maintaining the existing wool quality on his flock.

The Weekly Times spoke with Mr McCorkell about his results, in June this year.

ACTION FIGURE

Micron steady in 16-18 range

Wool cuts increased 20-30%

Body size increased

- Introduced Woodpark Poll rams about five years ago to lift body characteristics and wool cut while maintaining quality and whiteness of wool.
- Merinos comprise more than half the 7000 ewes joined by the McCorkells, despite being in the heart of composite country.
- Introducing Woodpark Polls lifted wool cuts by 20-30pc but micron remained steady.
- Huge impact on returns because there was more wool and Merinos to sell.
- Stock consigned direct to abattoirs and sold by grid.
- Merinos outclassing composites for returns.
- Sheep measured through ASBVs for selection internal benchmarking by consultants and measures including wether trials.

Woodpark Poll

Woodpark Merino & Poll Merino Studs

Graded Merino and Poll Merino rams available for Private Selection from October

A Merino enterprise started six years ago with the purchase of surplus Woodpark Poll 1.5yo sale ewes and 6yo ewes, joined to a mix of the stud's auction and grade rams, has topped the PWMMC, Australia's largest wether trial. The Mulquiny family's, Wooroonook, Vic, origin wether team had an average wool and carcase value of $205 a head, which was $10 more than the next highest-value team.

MULQUINYS MEASURE SUCCESS IN WETHER TRIAL

- Highest average return in Peter Westblade Memorial Merino Challenge, Australia's largest commercial Merino trial, the Mulquiny family, Wooroonook, Vic.
- $205/head combined wool and carcase result
- $10/head above next highest team
- Highest carcase value
- Highest Rampower DP ranking
- Third highest wool return
- 7.1kg GFW of 16.2 micron wool
- Second highest Rampower FP and MP rank
- Australia's largest commercial Merino evaluation
- 40 entrants in total
- Mulquinys started breeding six years ago
- Established flock with 110 6-year-old Woodpark Poll ewes and Woodpark Poll grade and auction rams
- Added Woodpark Poll-bred 1.5yo ewes from Jerilderie sale following year
- Liked elite wool and doing ability

Thank you for your interest and support today and through the year.
