 Rangeland Red - Goat Stud

BUNNALOO BLACK GOATS Black & Red Kalahari Goats.

BBG was started in 2017 in response to an increasing demand for Black Kalahari/ Boergoat embryos from China and Malaysia. BBG is situated on Fairfield Farm near Bunnaloo, NSW. At the time, it was very difficult to find any black goat genetics of good quality in any numbers which would have been practical. The only sensible course of action was to start a black goat herd from scratch. Colleen and John Usher of Jolleen stud, Mudgee, NSW supplied four Kalahari black does and three red does which carried the black gene. Two bucks were also purchased from Jolleen - one black buck (Jacob) and a red buck that had the black gene. In 2018, BBG purchased two more red does and a top-quality black buck (Nelson) from the Jolleen stud. It was decided that embryo transfer would be the only tool available to quickly increase the number of black and red animals in the stud. A small embryo transfer program was done in May 2018 and again in May 2019 using the best animals in the stud. A much bigger program was embarked on in 2020 using quality goats that were identified as breeding solid black and red. There are currently 90 kids born in Sept/Oct 2020 which are predominantly solid black or red. These animals will be marketed in 2021. Because of the very small black Kalahari genepool it has been essential to broaden the base using Kalahari Reds and red Boer goats. There are plans to do an even bigger breeding program in 2021 which will produce in excess of 200 breeding does into the future. The plan is to produce enough black and red goat genetics in the form of live animals, embryos, and semen to supply the export market and more importantly the burgeoning local market. The goats at Bunnaloo are run in an extensive environment to ensure that they are adapted to rangeland conditions when they are sold. We feel that it is essential to supply quality animals that can transition seamlessly into any environment and function well in the harsh Australian outback. Stud is BGBBA registered.

RANGELAND RED

Rangeland Red Goat Stud "Build Tough for Rangeland Conditions"

Matt & Zaya Wood own and run 50,000 acres at Goodooga in north western NSW in a 400mm rainfall zone and which has been in various degrees of drought since 2012. Drought has necessitated a permanent change to the business model with the focus now on sheep and goats. Rangeland Red Goat Stud was established in 2018 with the aim of improving our commercial rangeland goats with Red Kalahari genetics. We wanted to breed red bucks that we could put across our rangeland does that would reduce the amount of white on the goats and that also increased growth rates, slaughter weights and yields.

The stud originated from stock secured from many studs across Australia including Bailieston, Amadika, Yarrabee, Teal Point and Lomandra with later stock and genetics being added from Jolleen, Tambookie, Kazleesha, Armadown, Strzboer and Amahle. We have now expanded to over 140 does in the stud and will be building the stud numbers to 500 does in the coming year. We commenced a major embryo flushing and transfer program in 2019 with over 160 embryos going into recipient does. In 2020 we continued our embryo flushing and transfer programme with over 200 embryos going into recipient does. We only flush our very best does with the very best bucks and this has allowed us to quickly make significant gains in numbers and quality. We will be continuing our embryo and transfer programs into 2021. In early 2020 a sister stud was established in the USA. This has sourced some of the very best red bucks and does in the USA. To date over 2,000 semen straws and over 50 embryos have been collected with import into Australia in 2021. This will see the entry of new blood never seen in Australia from exceptional red goats. Commercial numbers at Goodooga have also been expanding and with new exclusion fencing going up across all our past cattle country this should result in us increasing numbers to 5,000 to 10,000 does being run on seasonal basis. The popularity of red and black goats has increased tremendously throughout Australia due to their advantageous colour, proven survivability and increased carcass weights. Rangeland Red are breeding sound, fertile, well-muscled, quiet red goats that are fast maturing with rapid growth, whilst maintaining hardiness and strong Kalahari breed character. High standards of animal husbandry are maintained throughout the stud, including regular vaccinations and parasite control. Rangeland Red Goat Stud is registered with the Boer Goat Breeder's Association of Australia LTD (BGBAA).
