History of Jan – A – Ree White Suffolk's.

The Harrison Family of Nullawarra Station, Cobar are offering 220 elite selected stud ewes for dispersal due to a shift in production practices.

The Jan-A-Ree white Suffolk stud has been in operation since establishment in 1993 and is stud #229. The stud has been based on selected genetics from the Alyesbury farm stud - one of the founding White Suffolk studs in Australia.

To date, the stud has sold more than 3000 rams to both northern and southern Lamb producers, targeting length and constitution with high growth rates and structural correctness.

Jan-A-Ree Stud has enjoyed high lambing percentages throughout the past 28 years, ranging from 130-150% in the hot climate of the Western Division. A true testament to the constitution of the breed.

Approx. 6 years ago the Harrison family introduced a bare breeched white Suffolk Ram line into a selected group of matrons to target wool removal from the belly, face, pizzle and points. As seen in the dispersal group, the bare breech, belly and points is a prominent feature of this line of ewes.

The ewes are offered in smaller groups within their age categories. Ewes were shorn on the 27th of July 2020 and presented as non-station mated. A scanning certificate is available to verify ewes scanned empty.

Any successful purchaser will be offered up to $100 freight subsidy from the vendor and is applicable "per lot" purchased.
