

Full Descriptions

Lot 1 - Carton of WX strip loin - WX by Rangers Valley is Wagyu, cross bred with the very best genetics to create something new and unique to a market looking for something rare and exclusive. Ours isn't like other cross bred wagyu. It stands alone as a product because it's not just about the wagyu component – or the marble score. It's about a newly developed and artfully crafted evolution. This evolution is equally the wagyu and marble score, plus a deliberate and artful cross breeding – a lineage nexus where one great ancient breed meets another to create a flavour, performance and undeniable quality that's impossible to define. All WX by Rangers Valley cattle are allowed to develop naturally and are fed slowly over 360 days. This slow feeding process ensures a natural growth rate, maximising the natural marbling found in Wagyu cross plus consistency and an outstanding flavour. Thank you to Andrew Malloy of Rangers Valley at Glen Innes for the donation.

Lot 2 - Buzz' working Collie dog - Prepared by Angus Rains. Buzz is an easy dog to get along with and Angus believes he has a great future. Video available of Buzz working cattle. Lot 4 - Speckle Park Bull - Basalt 199 is out of Oakey Creek bred Speckle Park cow by a Minnamurra Purebred Speckle Park Bull. Bred and donated by Angus Ryrie of Basalt Speckle Parks. Speckle Park cattle are naturally polled, renowned for their docility, hardiness and fertility. They are great foragers with speedy weight gain off grass or grain. They have excellent carcass characteristics with high yields and are consistently performing in Paddock to Plate competitions. According to Minnamurra Speckle Park Stud, Speckle Parks have a breed-unique trait of high intramuscular fat without excess marbling- when cooked this largely dissipates leaving a highly flavoursome, tender and healthy meat to eat. Thank you to Angus Ryrie of Basalt Speckle Parks near Bell for the generous donation.

Lot 20 - $400 Ringers Western Voucher - Ringers Western has an extensive range of clothing & accessories to suit everyone. The Ringers Western brand was born back in 2012, cooked up on a rugged cattle station in the Kimberley. The mob was sitting under the stars around the campfire, having a 'few cold ones' after a hard days mustering. One of the stockmen's shirts had ripped – again! The fellas joked, throwing around the idea to make their own gear, gear that could withstand the conditions of life on a station. Founder Andrew Macdonald took the reins and soon after, Ringers Western burst into the clothing market. Ringers Western provides a dependable product that can be worn by ringers and cowboys yet is also fashioned to appeal to men and women off the station. With our focus firmly set on a quality clothing feel, our brand combines just that - a cool vibe with classic country style. Thank you to Andrew MacDonald, Ringer Western for supporting the Auction.
