OUTSTANDING GROWTH FOR AGE
HEAVY CUTTING NOURISHED STUD BREEDING WOOL

Collinsville origins date back to 1889 and currently around 8,500 registered stud ewes and 8,000 commercial ewes cutting 8-9kg of 20-21-micron wool.

This review discusses the top 'stud sire' prospects to be offered at the 2021 on property sale.

ET bred. We really do value this ram. Still holding lamb's teeth at 125kgs – he is a robust sire with strong bone with wide chest, square behind and deep side – great spring of rib! Excellent poll factor.
An ULTIMATE blend of carcase traits and wool quality. Brilliant testing 'bulky' free-growing 'clean' WHITE fibre.
A top end stud to influence PRODUCTIVE dual-purpose breeding!!

Showing 'baby' LAMB'S TEETH and weighing 125kg!!

An ET bred FREE-MOVING sire that Collinville should and could retain. A meaty well shaped uncomplicated ram (nicely covered) destined to stamp the Poll Merino breed in the forthcoming years.

Pure muzzle, good on feet and square bite. This is an EASY-DOING modern DUAL-PURPOSE sire set off superbly with clearly marked stud white fibre adorned with staple length, lock structure and genuine wool cut.

The breed needs dominance at the top end – body growth, carcase shape and top-class nourished wool quality and quantity. Such is Tag 33!
