JAXBREY

— BOER GOAT STUD —

Our Story

Jaxbrey Boer Goat was founded in 2017 by myself, Lance McQueen - a fourth generation farmer, on a family farm near Kyogle in the Northern Rivers region of New South Wales. Preserving the family tradition, I derived 'Jaxbrey' from the combination of my children's names Jaxbrey and Aubrey whom I hope will continue the legacy set out before them.

In 2020, an opportunity arose to relocate the stud to Talwood in South West Queensland when Scott and Sellina Bate of Bundah Rural purchased a share in the company. This allowed us to significantly expand our herd to in excess of 500 full blood breeding does. Our genetics were sourced from some of the most influential lines available throughout Australia. Thus, we began selectively breeding to produce the high level of quality Boer Goats we have today.

Understanding the importance of quality breeding does and the influence of outstanding bucks on your breeding program is the basis for any successful enterprise, whether it be large or small. Over the last few years, the majority of our full blood bucks have been utilised in the Bundah Rural Breeder Program; subsequently, this has allowed us to monitor the buck performance through a large scale breeding program that services over 10 000 does per annum.

At Jaxbrey, we aim to embody a more economical and naturally raised animal that is more resilient, resulting in a higher meat production.

Our paddock sizes average 500 acres which encourages a larger grazing circle and the ability to walk further for water, thus, producing a stronger and more muscular animal. Due to the durability of our herd animals, supplementation requirements are minimal along with husbandry like hoof care and worm burdens.

We believe our animals will perform for you in the paddock and over the hook. They will produce quality off-spring that are hardy, low maintenance and good meat producers.
